

Descriptive Text: Green chalkboard background with chalk drawings of science and math activities. Illustrations of a diverse group of seven adults in various types of professional dress. Blue CDC logo in bottom right corner.

Seven CDC employees in various careers mention their job and brief background information.

Text on Screen: Public Health Careers at CDC: CDC NERD Academy

Wade Ivy, PhD: I'm an epidemiologist at the CDC.

Rebekah Tiller, MPH: So I am a laboratory professional.

Augustina Delaney, PhD: I work as a nurse consultant.

Laura Kollar, PhD: As a behavioral scientist.

Davina Campbell, MS, MPH: I'm a microbiologist.

Simone Gray, PhD: I'm a biostatistician.

Federico Feldstein, JD, MA, MEM: I work as a bilingual health communicator specialist.

Wade: I travel the world.

Augustina: I work on programs for mothers and infants who may be affected by HIV.

Rebekah: Took a position with the Carter Center working with the guinea work eradication programs.

Simone: I have worked in maternal and child health. I have worked in environmental health.

Davina: I went to my master's of science in Dairy Science.

Federico: And then I moved to the states where I studied communication.

Simone: I have worked in HIV AIDS, and I now currently work in cancer.

Laura: I collaborate as a researcher and a behavioral scientist at CDC with many other professionals.

Descriptive Text: Green chalkboard background with chalk drawings of science and math activities. Illustrations of a diverse group of seven adults in various types of professional dress. Blue CDC logo in bottom right corner.

Text on Screen: Hear their stories and learn more about public health careers at:
www.cdc.gov/scienceambassador/nerdacademy